

Books
I didn't read

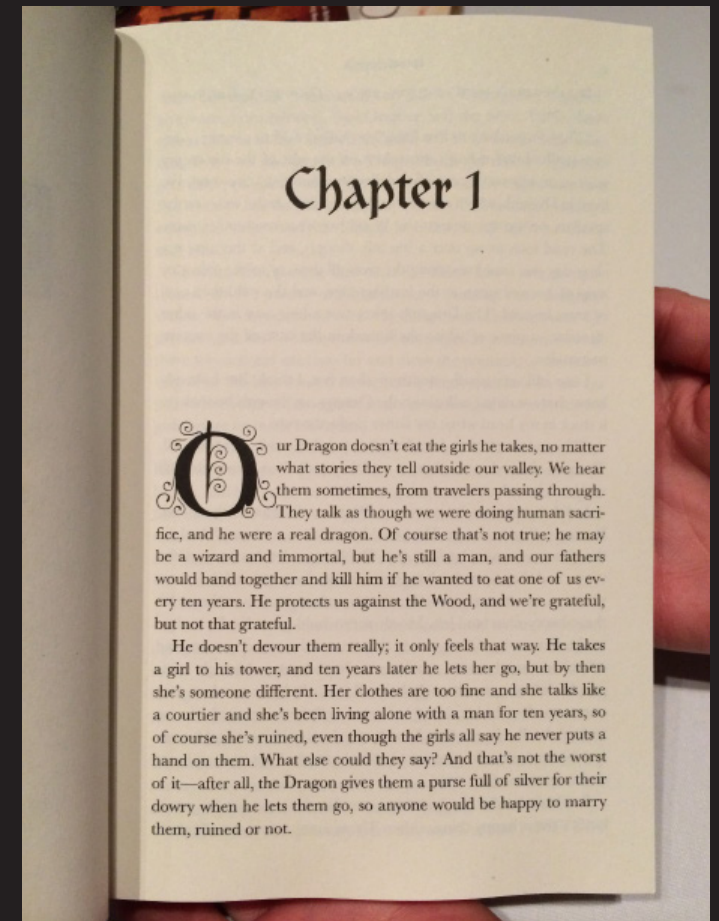

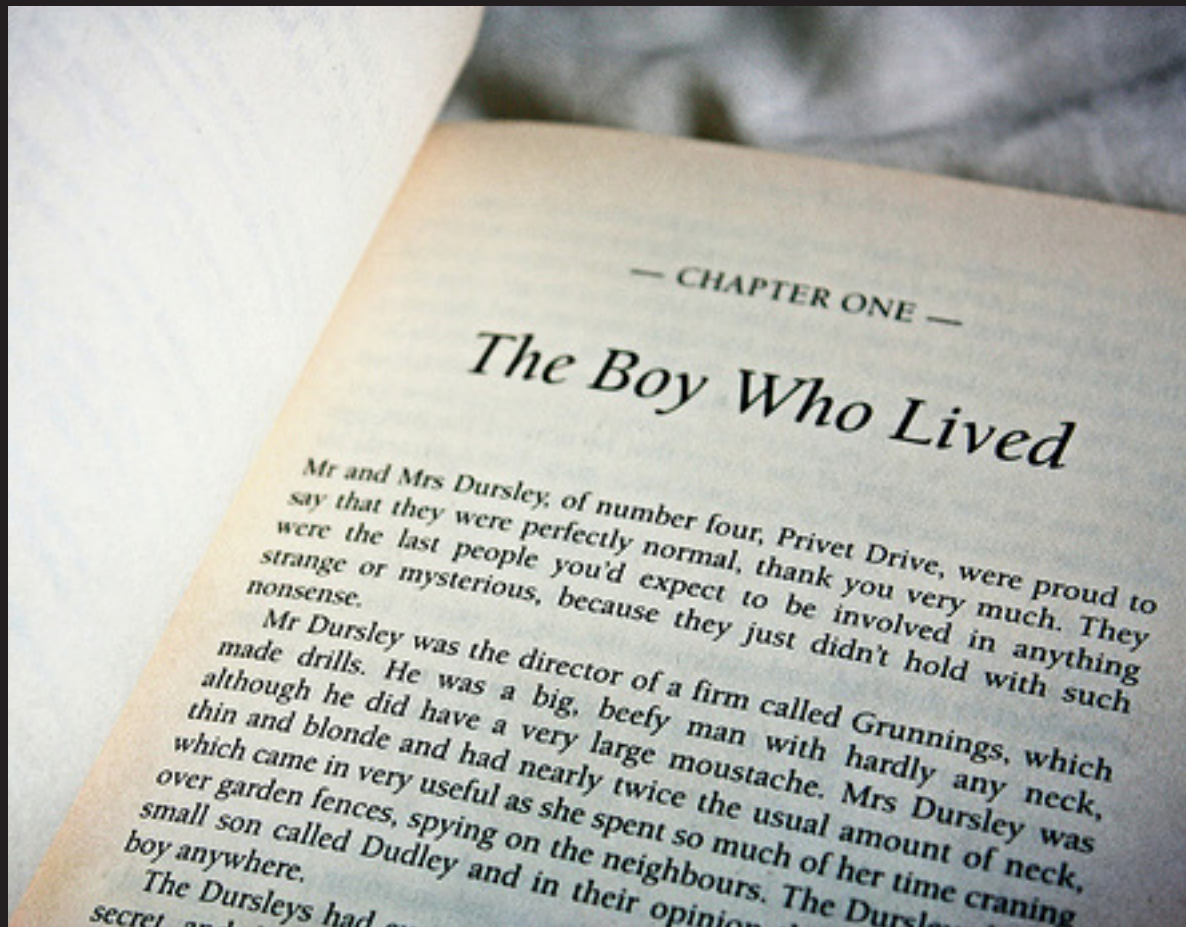

Front Covers

Many books have different versions (Anniversaries and new editions). I wanted to get all the books I didn't read and get the different book covers each book has.

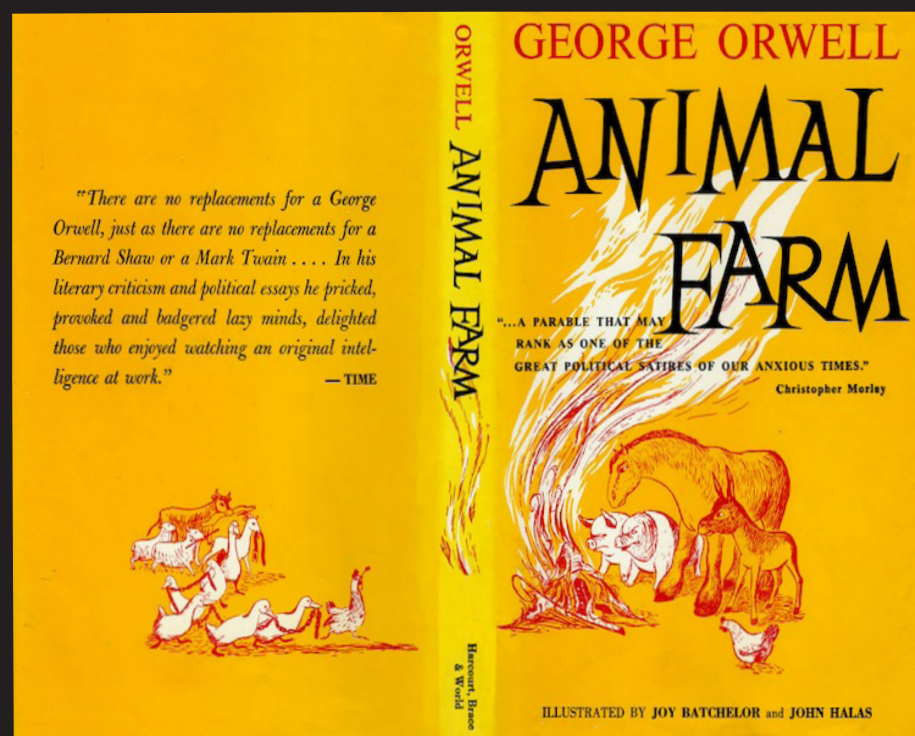

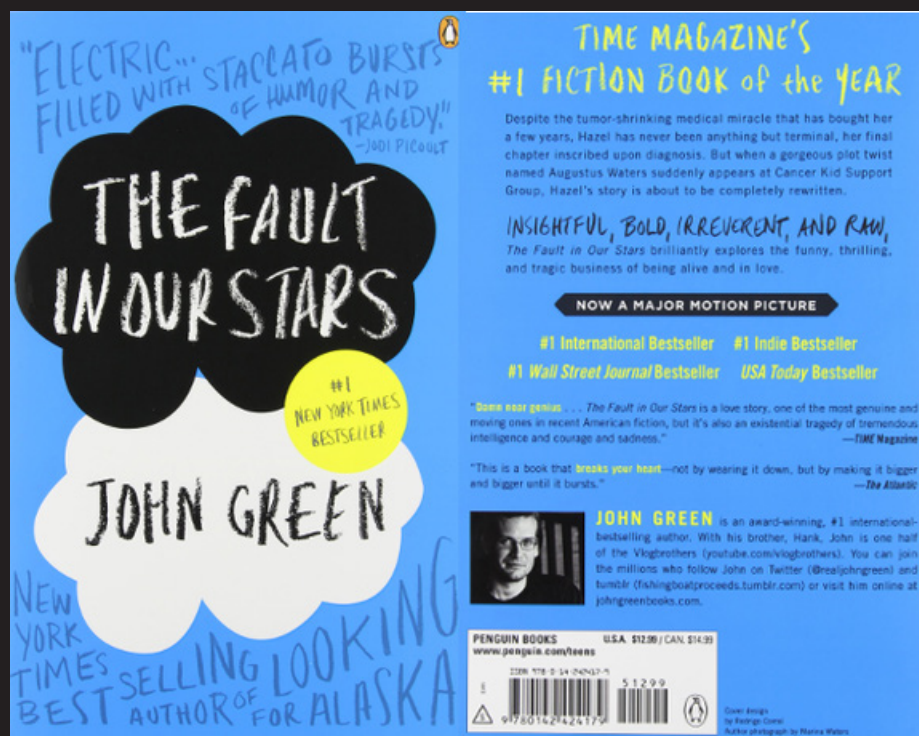

First Pages

Not being able to read 75-100 books during the duration of this project, let alone one.... I wanted to try to summarize what I think the book is going to be about by reading the first page (or maybe the first chapter) of the book.

Typefaces/Design

A lot of books have different typefaces, making them have their own personality. On the front cover, body, and back cover, all the typefaces add to how the book reads. Also all the little design choices they made (typesize, line spacing, etc.)

Spines

The spine of a book is one of the most important parts of it. It's a way all the pages are bound and a way people see which book they are getting while they are on shelves. The spine is a way designers can catch people's attention. I wanted to use this as a way for navigation.
