

Books

I didn't read

Concept

The archive would be about all the books I want to read, but didn't ... yet. I always wanted to read books, but haven't, due to my inability to focus on anything; let alone read. But, I ironically love book covers. I love how diverse they can be and how amazingly designed they can be. So, I wanted to combine the two sides, and showcase them in this archive.

Color in the City

Concept

This archive will be about the colors I see in the city. Usually walking to school, I feel as if all I see is black, white, and a lot of gray in between. I wanted to put different categories of different colors (red, orange, yellow, etc..) to show how much of each color I see in the duration of the project.

Phone Booths

Concept

This archive is about the phone booths we see in New York City. I feel as if many people do not use phone booths, or I've never seen anyone use it before. I've always been curious why they are still around. They do have ads on the sides of them, which really give each phone booth character.

Mood Board